

Fluorine is the most electronegative element
←

In general, electronegativity decreases down a group...

...and increases across a period